

Weltmeister Sway Bar parts

Posted by JerryW - 03 May 2011 17:37

Hey guys - I managed to pick up a set of 28mm/22mm weltmeister adjustable swaybars but I need some parts.

First off the front bar was for a late car and I have an early car. Does anyone have the parts that mount on the control arm for an early car ?

Secondly I need the bushings for the rear 22mm bar.

If any can help I'd appreciate it.

I am in the same boat - I tried ordering the parts I needed from Performance Products and they seemed helpful at first but then quit calling me back. All I need is the front " plastic blocks" / metal sandwich parts for attaching to the a-arm - I have everything else I think. Shouldnt be too hard to fab but Id rather just buy them new.

Bushings Id try Paragon Products? Dont think Welt will deal with anyone directly. Let me know if you have any luck.

I've been working with Jason at Paragon but no luck so far.

Jerry...

I picked up some used bars over a year ago and needed some parts. Paragon told me they could get them, so I sent over what I needed with the exact part numbers...weeks went by without a response, sent a follow-up email, weeks/months went by again with no response. Then, I placed a order for some other parts I needed..Asked Jason to include the sway bar parts....No response.

So...my last order, will be the last order I place with Paragon..After spending thousands of dollars with them over the years...they have lost me as a customer..

You should be able to get the rear bushings from Energy Suspension....

Sorry to hear that - Paragon have been very good to my Porsche owning experience.

I'll keep pushing them though - but thanks for the heads up.

Not a good reference for Paragon. I hope they see this and respond in a meaningful way to correct their problem. If they can not get something, they need to say so to allow their customer to move on.

Paragon, are you listening?????????
