building	a spec	car from	a turbo	tub?
Dogtod by you	haaatda as	Mar 2011 00.4	12

i have a turbo that i am parting and i would like to use the body to build a 944spec car. I would be stripping out everything turbo related obviously and using n/a bodywork and motor etc. I am familiar w/ these cars and i race currently w/ an n/a in chumpcar racing - see Dragon Somethin'- but i would like to build a serious spec car also. Someone mentioned i may not be able to use a turbo tub- any validity to this? It is the same besides the serial number from my experience....

The rules are here.....

www.nasaproracing.com/rules/944 spec rules.pdf

4 Eligible Models

1983-1988 Porsche 944, Normally Aspirated, 2479 cc, eight valve engine

1987-1988 Porsche 924S, 2479 cc, eight valve engine

4.1 Chassis Swaps

A 944 spec may utilize any year chassis in the above eligible models as well as the 1987-1988 944S and 1989 944. No other 944 or 924 type chassis may be used to build up a 944 spec. In all cases body work, engine, transmission, engine electrical and suspension components must conform to the list of eligible models and to the modifications expressly listed in these rules.

There must be some difference besides the motor.	Bigger clutch, stronger transaxle, different gear ratios

i agree however- i will be swapping brakes, trans, motor, deleting the rear valance, lower body plastic stuff, front fenders and nose, master cylinder, etc...i would have no advantage whatsoever from any other car w/ an identical chassis besides the vin tag. Is there some higher up that could verify this. This car has been with me for some time and it seems silly i cant use it because at one time it was a turbo.
